Karmin, Love Is Louder

Words cut you down, steal your crown
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder, babe
Let them yell, point and tell
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder

Days go by and what I've learned
Try to help and make it worse
Count your blessings once the damage is done
All the strangers and their friends
Starting battles we can't win
Childish dreams we once believed, it now gone

All the headlines that I read
Say the world is gonna bleed
And nothing you do's gonna stop it now
Gonna stop it now, you know
But I would like to live my life
Counting steps to paradise
I know it can't be far

Even words cut you down, steal your crown
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder, babe
Let them yell, point and tell
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder

If you walk beside me now
Lift the load a couple pounds
Heavy hearts could never slow us down
Join the movement, let them talk
Move the mountains, let them watch
Never been a better time now

Words cut you down, steal your crown
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder, babe
Let them yell, point and tell
But your heart has all the power
Don't you know your love is louder