

Amanda Palmer, Another Year

i tried to fall in it again my friends took bets and disappeared they mime their sighing violins i think ill wait another year i want my chest pressed to your chest my nervous systems interfere ten or eleven months at best

i think ill wait another year

this weather turns my tricks to rust i am a lousy engineer the winter makes things hard enough
i think ill wait another year plus, im only 26 years old my grandma died at 83 thats lots of time if i dont smoke

i think ill wait another year im not as callous as you think i barely breathe when you are near its not as bad when i dont drink

i think ill wait another year i have my new bill hicks cd i have my friends and my career im getting smaller by degrees you said youd help me disappear but that could take forever

i think ill wait another year itll be the best year ever i think ill wait another...

cant we just wait together? you bring the smokes, ill bring the beer
