Lily Allen, Lost My Mind

I caught some feelings now i sense a change something beautiful has slipped away I let you in and when you disappear like a dying of another day I was never planning on and of this chaos I wasn’t being difficult but you still betrayed us now I’m stuck in a rut, kicking stones looking at my phone all night maybe I’ve lost my mind when I couldn’t breath, couldn’t sleep and you say it served me right

you’re on the ceiling I’m down here on the floor keeps me coming back keeps me coming back for more I knew there’d be other girls and I liked the danger once ir twice I’ve seen your soul we weren’t always strangers

I’m stuck in a rut, kicking stones
when I couldn’t breath, couldn’t sleep

you wouldn’t give me clouser let me get off the ride and now I’m getting closer to the other side

when I couldn’t breath, couldn’t sleep

when I couldn’t breath, couldn’t sleep
