Kehlani, Altar

Fresh white flowers and a new tea light
Nine cups of water, still water
Soon I'll see your face
Don't know why I ever thought you were far away
I should've known better

If I set a flame and I call your name
I'll fix you a plate, we can go to dinner
We can share a meal your way
And I'll play you the songs that you used to play

So I put you on the altar, stay just a little bit longer
Laid it out for ya', thought I felt you before
Now you're closer, closer,
So I put you on the altar, stay just a little bit longer
Laid it out for ya', thought I felt you before
Now you're closer, closer

Holdin’ on to things you told me
Holding on to dreams you showed me
Holldig on ty enything form you
That you’ve been leaving here
Now i believe i swear
i can smell your perfume picking up your signal loike a phonebooth keeping you alive and i do it cause i want to

If I set a flame and I call your name
I'll fix you a plate, we can go to dinner
We can share a meal your way
And I'll play you the songs that you used to play

So I put you on the altar, stay just a little bit longer
Laid it out for ya', thought I felt you before
Now you're closer, closer,
So I put you on the altar, stay just a little bit longer
Laid it out for ya', thought I felt you before
Now you're closer, closer