

Hurts, Chaperone

Another Friday night
You call me up on the telephone I try to tell you you're too good for him

I guess after all this time falling for you was inevitable right now I'm worried about the state you're in but if you want to go home baby, I'll be your chaperone

If you want to go home
I'll go back to my bed alone

but would you run away
if I told you I loved you
but would you run away
if I told you I cared?
and o just want to be more than your friend would you run away
if I told you how I feel

I din't know if you remember that night un the bar I was looking at you desperately trying to work out where I stand?

I now right now, you need someone like me no another love but when you're ready for me, here I am and if you want to go home

baby, I'll be your chaperone
If you want to go home
I'll go back to my bed alone

but would you run away
if I told you I loved you
but would you run away
if I told you I cared?
and o just want to be more than your friend
would you run away
if I told you how I feel