

Parcels, Withorwithout

You were the world calling out my own name
You were the girl I fell beneath every day
You were the birds talking in my dream you were the world I wish I'd never seen You were the line, drawn in every way you were divine even though I'd say you were the start of something I don't need you are the world I wish I'd never seen

with or without you
better without you
better without you
better without you
with or without you

said I was more than a man in your way said I was yours til the end of the day there was a time when I would have been over the moon, sinking on my knees you are the world calling out my own mane
you were the girl I fell beneath every day
you were the birds talking in my dream

better without you
better without you
with or without you
