

Tom Odell, Jubilee Road

It's a late Friday night, the street lamps are shining up in my bedroom.
There's a mighty big fight between the thunder and lightning, I wonder who will lose.

there's a party balloon and I ain't been invited hey, look at the moon there ain't nothing like it all grey and gold

down on the Jubilee Road

can see Mr. Bouvier is his 20beetreoom basemenr in hus purple dungarees he's grumpy and he's grey always sweeping off the pavement cigarettes and leaves his kid's up in china and his wife's up in heaven always I wave cause he's got this expression that he's so alone

I think tomorrow night I will know on his door and hear all about his life because I think that's the kind of thing that I might like when; I am old
